INTRO

What you got right here is an oldschool-ass dungeon adventure with all the classics: a town with a problem, a forest, and a dungeon.

It's also got devout religious Anarchists, vultures with human hands, a spider in love, professional ogres, eight factions in conflict, a giant, a dragon, an absolutely stupid amount of treasure, and a minimum of obvious solutions.

It's a loveletter to my favorite oldschool dungeon things:

- ◆ A workaday world wrestling with intractable conflicts and strange horrors
- ◆ Problems whose solutions become problems
- ◆ Crawling with choices & consequences
- ◆ Darkness, full of treasure, gunpowder and matches
- ◆ Death, death, death! for the unwary and the unlucky.

The statblocks are for Shadowdark Characters level 5 and up, but with minimal elbow grease, you can run it with any dungeon game.

Get ye into that darkness, ye mad fools!

OVERVIEW

THE ANARCHISTS

15 Principled People, desperately disillusioned, nursing bitter ideals of justice. Members of their local community.

Led by no one person, emphatically. They have a lot of meetings.

They believe that long ago, the wicked Druids enslaved the nature god, Gede, planting rootlings of servitude in her pure, free heart.

They recite a mysterious fragment of poem:

*blood of fruit
feet of stone
blood of root
heartwood bone*

They want the real Gede back. They want a wilder, more loving world.

They plan to summon an incarnation of Gede so that Hisa can cut the evil roots of servitude from its heart with the Spear of Horrendous Iron.

THE GIANT

HISA³⁹, last Princess of the Giants of Jotungard, is re-forging the blade that was broken, the Spear of Horrendous Iron.

She figures if the Anarchists are right, the world will become brutal enough that only Giants will be capable of ruling. If they're wrong, their screams will be sweet music as she eats them, limb by limb.

She believes that Giants have the right to rule.

She hates humans, deeply.

She wants glory.

She plans on killing Skrylja to test the Spear when finished, and after, that, probably everyone else.

THE GOBLINS

13 Crafty Bandits with a sweet deal: the Anarchists tip them off to merchant traffic, and the Goblins take the heat for everything fishy in the area.

Led by SNIKTA⁴³, nobody's fool. Sizing up the brewing Ogre / Anarchist conflict, weighing what's in it for her. She brings Skrylja little silver things and talks to her sometimes.

She believes in teamwork and patience.

She wants to keep her crew tight, and watch for her exit.

She plans on getting out with as much loot as she can before things explode.

THE OGRES

9 Professional Heavies, strictly in it for the money.

Employed by the Anarchists as protection against increasingly hostile forest beings. Promised half of Skrylja's Hoard after the "great work" was complete, their patience is wearing thin.

Led by GRAR²¹, a grizzled vet with small spectacles, a large spear, and zero fucks.

He believes in the merits of professionalism and violence.

He wants what he's owed.

He plans to retire very rich.

THE DRAGON

SKRYLJA₃₅ is a reptile who cares only for her beautiful silver dreams. She dragons over a staggering hoard of ancient dwarven silver in perfect darkness.

She believes she is the most powerful thing in a thousand miles.

She wants what she has.

THE DRUID

THE DRUID₄₃ is a nature-worshipping monk from far away. She is of great age and vigor. She refers to the Anarchists as the Cult of the Unburied Root. She forgot her own name a hundred years ago.

She believes that if any incarnation of Gede is summoned and harmed by a re-forged Spear, Gede herself may well be corrupted. This is the vilest blasphemy she can imagine.

She wants to recover the Blood Root and return it to the sacred grove.

She plans to kill all the Anarchists.

THE PEOPLE

140 hardworking peasants:

Takin-herders, farmers, tanners, thatchers, bakers, laborers, volunteer guards, weavers, gardeners, idiots, lovers, shepherds and musicians. Parents, kids, cousins, lovers.

They believe a lot of things.

They just want to be safe.

THE TAX MEN

Lord Riordan's goons: hardened SOLDIERS₄₃, opportunists and ex-cons in the employ of an indifferent, sporadically brutal local lord.

They take more than people owe. That's how they get paid.

They believe the world is an awful place where only the hard survive.

They want to think that the people they hurt can expect no better.

They plan on going home and drinking heavily.

HOOKS

KNIGHT'S MAP

Hilda, sole survivor of a "Dragon-Slaying" party. Badly traumatized.

She offers a map of the Dungeon (show the players the Dungeon map) if they'll provide her with a horse she can ride away on, today.

She knows whatever you want her to, but probably not what the Anarchists are up to.

FIRE!

Halgaland's Town Hall burns.

Faeren says she saw Grysa light it. Grysa says he saw a goblin. Captain Gythe is definitely going to punish someone.

He's giving the townspeople two days to come forward with evidence, confessions, or Goblins.

Failing any of those, Grysa will probably hang.

HIGHWAY BANDITS

A downed tree lies across the road. 9 GOBLINS₄₃ try to rob the players.

6 attack: short bows with PAIN POISON₂₇.

3 sprint in to steal something of value.

They all retreat to the Dungeon₂₅ immediately.

FOUND DEAD

In the road, a notoriously shitty rich man, full of arrows. Their right foot and 150GP are buried in a shallow grave in the middle of the road. Horses untouched. Captain Gythe scratching his head.

THE BLOOD ROOT

Someone rolls up with the BLOOD ROOT₂₀ in a jar. Their best efforts do not prevent it from leaving several pools of blood behind. They're here to meet a random Townsperson (they're an Anarchist).

KEY

Notable things are in bold. They're often interactive.

♦ Notable things. Further details, if any.

CARDS

Mean dice might get rolled.

It's a heads-up when there's a bona fide mechanic or rules interaction.

CREATURE CARDS

Stat blocks for creatures are outlined in red, like this.

The card index on pp 42-43.

A CARD REFERENCE indicates a card. If it has no page reference, it's on the page you're looking at.

Page references are in blue, like this₁₂. SD₁₂ means Shadowdark Core Rules page 12.

Dungeon room references are in red, like this 12.

STYLE

This is an adventure where player choices should have a defining impact on major events. The world should get weirder as a result of their actions.

But there will always be a few things (maybe several things) that they're going to find really difficult to control. The Travel Times₃ (and how they interact with the Clocks₄₃) help enforce this.

The Players' job is to make tough choices about their weird world: where to be, when, and why, and what to do in bad situations.

The GM's job is to make the world weird, the choices tough, the situations bad, and the players well-informed.

TOWN OF HALGALANT

"I love this time of day."

THE TOWN

140 souls in 41 buildings, coping with hardships. Among them, the taxes they owe Lord Riordan.

Robust front-porch culture. Everyone talks.

Sacred Grove. In the center of town, well-attended sunrise prayers to Gede.

TWO TAVERNS

- ♦ The Broken Blade. Known for an exotic taxidermy collection. Merchants & travellers, wine & pies. Rooms for rent.
- ♦ The Boar & Bell. Known for rude hostility to spellcasters. Locals & families, ales & music. No rooms for rent.

OVERHEARD THIS WEEK

- ♦ I swear to Gede, the forest is eating our farms out there. Never had to work like this to keep the weeds and voles out, never. Don't know how I'm going to make it to harvest this year. And with so many young folk up and gone. Not enough hands.
- ♦ How the hell I'm going to get my goods up to port with those Gede-damn bandits out there? And where, I'm asking, are Riordhan's sword men? Isn't that what all them taxes are for?
- ♦ Listen, kid, just tell ma, if someday soon, I'm gone, like Lilja, that... nevermind, just don't say nothing. You're a good kid.
- ♦ He said he'd have it here by full moon. Where is he?

D6 TOWN ENCOUNTERS

Roll on this table 1/day. Repeats = advances on the TOWN CLOCK₁₅

- 1 Missing Farmer. Their Takins lowing pitifully to be milked.
- 2 Ivy devours a building. A crowd gathers; it's fast enough to watch.
- 3 Traveling Merchant Killed on the road into town. See Hooks₁₀.
- 4 Market Day. Prices crash; there are way too many vegetables.
- 5 4 TAKIN₄₃ run berserk; 16 SQUARRELS₁₉ clawing at their eyes.
- 6 Head on a Pike. Murderer & victim (2 random townspeople) are dead.

ANY TOWN

The Town of Halgalant is sketched in relationships, not mapped in buildings. This is so that you can run this adventure in any town. Just call it something else.

The Town Matters. In the course of this adventure, the players don't actually need to go to the town. But the fate of the town should nonetheless matter; it matters to everyone written in the adventure.

PEOPLE

All People are Townspeople. Unless otherwise noted, all people in this adventure are Townspeople.

Any time you need to know who someone is — whether Townsperson, Anarchist, or Cultist — use the TOWNSPERSON TABLE¹⁷.

Plot Twists. This means dice will reveal familiar people in surprising situations; plotting revolution, dead, or, against all prior indication, Cultists.

These rolls will have a big impact on how the game plays out. This is intentional.

If possible, roll with it.
If not, roll again.

MANAGING IT

Keep it Small. This adventure has a lot of factions, and a lot of possible NPCs. If you need to roll for more Townspeople than are listed, consider making them meet with fatal misfortune. That's too much to track!

Strongly Suggested. Re-roll results on tables indicating violence against Saide or other children, unless your table has discussed it.

HOW IT WAS

Everybody knows. How the Giants used to rule here, eating herd and shepherd alike.

How the Druids — yes, the very Druids themselves! — used to worship stones, away off there, deep in the forest.

How Ylvian Blade-Breaker broke the power of the ancient Giant-Kings, how they fled, how the valley knew two hundred years of plenty.

How the crafty old Dwarves lived in the mountain after, and the wonderful things they made. How they disappeared one night, like magic.

How the hills stopped giving up silver, then, and how the times got harder.

How the plain people of Halgalant stayed on. How the Takin saw them through.

How the rains have gotten strange. How the woods have gotten darker.

How the taxes went unpaid last year. How the tax men made threats.

How there isn't enough.

TOWNSPEOPLE

SELBYN

Weaver. Secret witch (makes potions). Speaks fiercely. This week, praying. She/her.

Believes something's wrong.

Wants to know why her brother disappeared.

Plans to go into the woods.

THE TOWN ELDERS

Indistinguishable old folks: Jahm, Jehm, and Jihm. Consider everything, do little. Talk in circles. This week, same as last week.

Believe the rumors.

Want the good times back.

Plan to discuss it further.

CAPTAIN GYTHE

Considers little; takes action. Fluffy mustache. Loud explainer. This week, bad nightmares. He/him.

Believes in duty and deeds.

Wants Lord Riordhan to notice him.

Plans on running for Lord mayor one day.

FARMER THEODA

Anxious, stoic. Talks little. This week, pulling weeds. They/them.

Believes something's wrong.

Wants Selbyn to answer their marriage proposal.

Plans to repair the fence.

SAIDE

Orphaned, hungry, scrappy nonetheless. Talks a lot. This week, has a cold. She/her.

Believes animals can sometimes talk.

Wants a family.

Plans to do her best, every day.

YAHN

Yarn Merchant. Total jag. This week, says he won't pay the "lazy" workers who "got him robbed" on the road. He/him.

Believes there are two kinds of people in the world.

Wants respect.

Plans on leaving with a lot of borrowed money before the Tax Men get here.

Starting Off. 2 Random Townspeople are Anarchists. One of them is a Cultist.

Random Townspeople, Anarchists, and Cultists. Roll or pick. To include the named people, add their names (elders are 3 people) to the below table and roll a d20.

If in doubt, use PEASANT₄₃ stats.

D12 TOWNSPEOPLE

NAME	JOB	DESIRE
1. Starmjörn	1. Farmer	1. to get out
2. Glennful	2. Farmer	2. for something to happen
3. Beo	3. Farmer	3. their lover to come home
4. Thalder	4. Brewer	4. power
5. Sielda	5. Baker	5. to be taken seriously
6. Grylba	6. Miller	6. revenge
7. Grysa	7. Thatcher	7. to start fresh
8. Ander	8. Smith	8. money
9. Helesent	9. Tanner	9. anonymity
10. Relsun	10. Drunk	10. not to be sick anymore
11. Thorfinn	11. Priest	11. knowledge
12. Faeren	12. Traveler	12. to confess

D12 TOWNSPEOPLE BELIEFS

1. Magic isn't real. Hand me that bucket.
2. Magic is a wrongness. Better folk'n you lost their way with it.
3. Magic belongs to Druids. Leave theirs to them, and pray to Gede.
4. Gede is real. She drove the dragons underground, in the old days.
5. Gede is real. And she's forsaken us. Look ye round.
6. Gede is real. I feel her in my bones. ...in my actual bones.
7. Riordan won't follow through on those threats. ...Right?
8. Riordan's no worse than any of them Lords. Grow up; pay your taxes.
9. Riordan's the scum of the earth. May the Giants take his bones.
10. The forest is old. Older than Gede. And dark. Dinna seek the stones!
11. Mt. Fjörnar? Full of Dwarf-silver. Cursed. Druids cursed it.
12. The Druids are the old school, son. They'll be back. You'll see.

D6 FOREST ENCOUNTERS

Roll a d6. On a 1, there is an encounter.

The Forest during in Day:	Check every 3 rounds	(Unsafe)
The Forest during the Night:	Check every 2 rounds	(Risky)
If a clock increases threat levels...	Check every round	(Deadly)

Treat repeat results on this table as advances on the FOREST CLOCK₄₀

- HURT UNICORN. Bleeding, in a Stampede of 4d6 FANGED ELK
- ROOT BALL. Carnivorous writhing root-mass. Eating a dead person.
- SENTIENT SAP. Stuck to a dying ANARCHIST₂₀, faintly pulsing.
- 2d6 SQUARRELS. Senselessly furious, chittering shrilly.
- 1d4+1 WOLVES. Two of them have human faces. PCs recognize one.
- 1d2 OGRES₂₀ escorting 1d6 excited ANARCHISTS₂₆.

ANARCHIST CAMP

A ramshackle collection of shacks, tents, and lean-tos. Well used firepit & soup kettle. Fallen tree makes a rough communal table. 6 TAKIN₄₃ graze idly. 1d12 ANARCHISTS₂₆ here at any given time.

ANARCHIST BLOC

Joining the Movement. If players wish to join the Anarchists, roleplay it; they're recruiting. Conditions for membership might include renouncing all property, an act of religious devotion, destruction, or similar.

CULTIST BLOC

Within the Anarchist collective, a faction of die-hards are undergoing physical transformation into HEARTWOOD CULTISTS₂₆. Their bones turn to wood and their tongues turn black as they make this change.

Joining the Cult. Membership is an earned position of trust among the devout, and involves secret rites of transformation.

THE FOUR RELICS

To complete the SUMMONING₂₃, the Cult needs four relics:

BLOOD OF FRUIT
FEET OF STONE
BLOOD OF ROOT
HEARTWOOD BONE

HEARTWOOD BONE

As Anarchists become Cultists, their bones turn to roots; any of these wooden bones will serve. One of the Cultists has volunteered to have her arm cut off.

BLOOD OF ROOT

A beating root of the holy Blood Tree, stolen from a secret grove protected by THE DRUID₄₆ hundreds of miles away.

Bleeds unendingly.

FEET OF STONE

Must be petrified while living.

The Cultists have gone to great lengths to secure a BASILISK₂₇ and a glassy-eyed volunteer.

BLOOD OF FRUIT

To grow these fruits, the Cultists have been watering the Gnarled Oak₂₃ with human blood.

Luck token if eaten. Tastes like mutton.

OGRE: GRAR

AC 12, HP 38, ATK 2 spear +8 (2d6), MV Near, S +4, D -1, C +3, I +0, W -2, Ch -2, AL C, LV 7

Consideration. Spends 1 Action studying. Next 2 Attacks have ADV.

OGRES

Massive brutes with tusks and heavy frames. Wearing Chainmail.

AC 12, HP 30, ATK 2 greatclub +6 (2d6), MV Near, S +4, D -1, C +3, I -2, W -2, Ch -2, AL C, LV 6

OGRE TRAPS

Tripwire Alarms. An ornate helmet, an axe set with a ruby, and golden bracelet. Each attached to wires that ring hidden bells.

Rock Slides. 3 separate piles of rocks held back by logs. Hand-triggered.

DC 12 DEX or 2d4 Damage. If hit, DC 15 STR or swept into the ravine. DC 12 STR to climb out.

OGRE BALLISTA

2 human-sized creatures (or 1 Ogre) needed to operate.

Takes 1 round to load, cranking loudly.

ATK +3 (2d12), near.

THE OGRE CAMP

At any given time, 5 of the 9 OGRES are at their camp. The other 4 are on guard duty or working actively with the Anarchists.

The Ogre Camp is constructed at one end of a natural canyon. A steep ravine runs alongside it, blocked off at either end with uprooted thorn-bushes.

♦ Behavior. 1d6: 1-3 watchful, 4-6 OGRE BOREDOM.

♦ Fortified. OGRE TRAPS.

♦ Strategy. Liberal but rational with violence. They'll try to knock intruders into the ravine. They'll ransom prisoners if they're rich. If not, they'll take turns throwing rocks at them until they're dead.

♦ Wagons. Building 8 three-wheeled rickshaws (1d8 finished), well-suited for traversing mountain paths.

♦ Ballista. Not loaded. 12 bolts nearby, neatly stacked.

D6 OGRE BOREDOM

- 1 Rock-punching competition
- 2 Learning to read
- 3 Building wagons
- 4 War stories from the fairy wars.
- 5 Gambling: Thieves and Wizards, SD₉₄.
- 6 Grumbling: where's the pay - and why's Boss making us build wagons?

The hills are old.

THE STANDING STONES

Five standing stones preside mutely over a shady dell, the upthrust stone fingers of a long-dead Giant. The location is known only to an inner circle of the Cultist bloc and the Ogres.

Huddled close by, two small tents & one larger ogre-yurt.

227 GP buried nearby in a fresh, shallow grave, with a simple wood headstone, reading: Roots of Evil.

Above, a spreading Gnarled Oak with no leaves. 3 corpses tied to it. 1d4 BLOOD FRUITS₂₀ growing. Below, a riot of wildflowers.

1 OGRE₂₁ & 3 CULTISTS₂₆ stay here. By day, bored or sleeping. By night, a large bonfire, watchful for the terrors of the forest. If FOREST CLOCK₄₀ > 4, the BASILISK₂₇ is hooded & chained.

SUMMONING

1st. Straightforward, heartfelt worship of Gede. 10 minutes.

2nd. Burying the Blood of Fruit & Blood of Root. Burying the two volunteers up to their thighs. Tense, reverent. 10 minutes.

3rd. BASILISK₂₇ unmasked. Attempt at controlled petrification.
Roll Basilisk Behavior: 1:3, as planned, 4:6, chaos ensues.
Roll Volunteer Morale: 1:4, panic, 5:6, steadfast.

4th. Lopping off the 2nd volunteer's arm at the elbow.
Roll Volunteer Morale: 1:4, panic, 5:6, steadfast.

5th. The tree transforms into the AVATAR OF GEDE. 5 minutes.

If interrupted. The tree transforms into the OKTAR₄₃.

AVATAR OF GEDE

A 40 foot Dryad, enacting the perfect and mysterious will of Gede.

AC 18, HP 55, ATK 2 +9 Crush (2d8+Life Drain) MV Near, S +4, D +0, C +4, I +1, W +4, Ch +3, AL N, LV 10

Life Drain. Attach to struck target; Avatar heals 8HP. Auto-hit while attached. DC 15 STR on turn to remove.

Bears. After 3 rounds of combat, 3 BROWN BEARS₄₃ appear to help.

If corrupted. Within 6 miles of the Avatar, the natural world becomes hostile to intelligent life — wild animals attack on sight, plants burn skin, evil trees march in great numbers, roots and vines tear down structures. Avatar seeks total destruction of all human habitation. Some Anarchists will be ecstatic, others horrified.

UNDER MT. FJÖRNAR

HALLS OF THE UNDERKING

Ages ago, before the wars, and the dragon, it was summerhome to the Underking. Agradur, chief among Dwarven smiths, had his anvil here, producing great works of arms, armor, and art.

In the centuries since, Skrylja has dreamed her silver dreams, content to let spiders, rust monsters, stingbats, and things without names crawl in and out of the depths around her.

In this century, the vast majority of the halls are collapsed, closed off, long forgotten, home only to silence and dark.

Last year, by chance, the Anarchists discovered a door to the Upper Halls and later, some of its secrets. They set up operations there. The hardest core among them hatched a plan to bring back Gede. They journeyed over ice and tundra to recruit a Giant.

Last month, dragonslayers reminded Skrylja that a world outside exists. She stacked their blood-filled armor neatly. Now she broods.

This week, Hisa blasted a tunnel in from area 22. Now Agradur's forge sings again as Hisa re-forges the Spear. Dark roots invade in piles and tangles to split what walls remain. Feverish Anarchists in weird masks plan the approaching SUMMONING²³.

D6 DUNGEON ENCOUNTERS

Roll a d6. On a 1, there is an encounter.

The Dungeon during the Night:	Check every 3 rounds	(Unsafe)
The Dungeon during the Day:	Check every 2 rounds	(Risky)
If a clock increases threat levels...	Check every round	(Deadly)

Treat repeat results on this table as advances on the DUNGEON CLOCK⁴⁰

1. 2 ROOT BALLS¹⁹ burst from the ceiling, collapsing a nearby passage.
2. 1d6 CULTISTS²⁶ dancing in violent ecstasy, sweating tree sap.
3. 1d4 OGRES²¹ escorting a blindfolded Anarchist they think is a mole.
4. 2d6 GOBLINS⁴³ looking for loot, tapping the walls for secret doors.
5. 3 RUST MONSTERS⁴³ Burrow in, through a wall. Draw a new tunnel.
6. Fight! Roll 1d6 two more times on this table to see who's fighting.

1. ENTRY

Door in frequent use. SPEAR TRAP triggers if the door opens fully. A rock wedged behind the door currently disables it.

2. FOYER

MURDER-HOLES concealed by geometric carvings. Secret Door to the NW, faint footprints on the floor.

3. SLEEPING QUARTERS

1d6 ANARCHISTS occupying them at any given time. Mending clothes, arguing economic theory, or making out.

If Searched: 34 GP, hidden in a sock.

4. WARDROBE

Shelves, freshly installed. 8 sets of ceremonial Hooded Robes. Coats of 4 ANARCHISTS hung on pegs.

- ♦ Hooded Robes. Itchy, poorly made. Ogres assume anyone wearing one is a cultist at first glance. Other Cultists, maybe.
- ♦ Coats. Belonging to townspeople. 3:6 chance that one of them recognizably belongs to a character the players have met, if they've been to town.

SPEAR TRAP

DC 9 DEX or 1d6 DMG + PAIN POISON

MURDER-HOLES

Attacking through the walls: not possible or at DISADV except for crossbow & similar.

ANARCHIST

A principled zealot.

AC 10, HP 6, ATK 1 dagger +1 (1d4) MV near, S +0, D +0, C +0, I +0, W +1, Ch +0, AL N, LV 1

HEARTWOOD CULTIST

AC 10, HP 6, ATK 1 Grip +2 (1d4 + life drain), MV near, S +0, D +0, C +0, I +0, W +1, Ch +0, AL C, LV 2

Life Drain. Attach to struck target; 1d4 DMG and Cultist heals 2HP. Auto-hit while attached. DC 9 STR on turn to remove.

Heartwood Limb. At 3 DMG, a HEARTWOOD LIMB breaks off: 1:3 Leg, 4:6 arm.

Human Eyes. Not dark-adapted.

HEARTWOOD LIMB

The bone is wood.

Arm. AC 9, HP 4, ATK 1 Grip + 2 (as above) MV near,

Leg. AC 9, HP 5, ATK 1 Kick +1 (1d4), MV close

PAIN POISON

DC 12 CON or disabled, screaming in pain for 1 minute.

BASILISK

Massive, muscled lizard with six legs and tough, grey hide.

AC 14, HP 25, ATK 2 bite +4 (2d6 + petrify), MV near, S +3, D +1, C +3, I -3, W +1, Ch -3, AL N, LV 5

Petrify. Any creature that touches the basilisk or meets its gaze, DC 15 CON of petrified.

GIANT SPIDER

Bulbous abdomen and eight spindly legs. Ambushes prey, capturing to eat later.

AC 13, HP 13, ATK 1 bite +3 (1d4+poison) MV near (climb) S +2, D +3, C +0, I -2, W +1, C -2 AL N, LV 3

Poison. DC 12 CON or paralyzed for 1d4 hours.

DARKMANTLE

Floating black octopus with rows of red eyes.

AC 13, HP 4, ATK 1 bite +3 (1d4) or 1 darkness, MV near (fly), S -2 D +3 C +0 I +0 W +0 C -3, AL N LV 2

Darkness. Extinguish all light sources in near.

5. BASILISK STORAGE

Heavy wooden door, barred from the outside. Small curtain covers a grate at eye level in the door. Two six foot poles ending in hooks, one bloody, lean in in the hallway. Awful stench. Inside, a petrified woman, a functional CLOAK OF ELVENKIND⁴² around her shoulders. Waiting at the door, a hungry BASILISK.

6. EMPTY

Collapsing. Fine dust, unused for decades. Faint warm draft from 13.

7. KITCHEN

Smells of stew. In one pantry, pickled meats in clay pots. Flesh-eating bioluminescent maggots got in. In another pantry, the GOBLIN GOODS⁴³.

8. HALF ROOM, HALF CAVE

The north door is marked in Goblin: NO! GIANT SPIDER & a DARKMANTLE in a tender partnership: a love-language of dark death. The ceiling: worked in webs, artfully, intricately: the story of their love.

A Dead Man clutches a small chest of gold, a faintly glowing Sword in his hand. An unlit, half-burned torch lies nearby.

- ♦ Dead Man. Purplish body, sucked dry. Came with Hilda to slay the dragon.
- ♦ Chest. 175 GP.
- ♦ Sword. Non-magical; painted with bioluminescent maggot blood.

Acid Pool

ACID

Touch: 1d6 Damage

Quickly dissolves all but bones, brass, and glass.

WINE

DC 9 WIS or drink again.

DC 9 CON or DISADV on ability checks for 10 min / each failed CON.

HOTSPRING

1d4 Damage for each round spent submerged.

GELATINOUS ICK

AC 11, HP 9, ATK 1
tentacle +2 (1d6), MV
near, S +1, D -3, C +0, I
-4, W -3, Ch -4, AL N,
LV 1

Trapping. DC 12 STR or sucked inside on a hit.
Escape: DC 12 STR.

TAR PIT

If lit on fire: within 2 turns, smoke renders the entire dungeon uninhabitably deadly for 3 days. Denizens pour out, universally furious.

CHALICE (MEAD)

Drinking grants a luck token which is lost if you speak. Cup refills every hour if submerged. Denser than water.

9. ST MARIAN'S POOLS

Lush, carpeted with young ferns, growing thickly in the perfect dark.

Ceilings: 50', finely mosaiced.

Pools: 15' deep, ringed with hip-high brick.

Day. HISA comes here every 10 minutes (1:6 chance she is here), crouching in area 11. Her arm and great brass ladle enter to fetch things. Ladle reaches all pools.

1. ACID. Bubbling, bright red. Sharp smell. Hisa etches spear-runes with it. Effective latrine, used frequently. Brass key (to area 12) and two brass earrings just visible among a pile of bones.

2. WINE. Deep red. Ogres are strictly forbidden from drinking it. Hisa drinks it.

3. HOTSPRING. Sulfur smell, whitish crust: Hisa traps livestock in it with her ladle to cook them.

4. GELATINOUS ICK. Clearish, gelatinous, moving very slightly. Goblins feed this sticky, hungry slime superstitiously. Suspended, a shining Longsword +1.

5. TAR PIT. Bubbling, black, highly flammable. The Golden Crown of the Underking (fabulous cultural and monetary value) forgotten at bottom. Hisa uses the tar to fuel the forge.

6. Tomb of Silence. Under clear, still water, a stone sarcophagus carved with a woman's peaceful smiling face. Inscription, in dwarven: St Marian the Content. On top, a CHALICE filled with delicious mead. The cup's magic is tied to the tomb. Value: 50 GP

10. COLLAPSED

Two empty rooms, largely collapsed.

11. EMPTY ROOM

The floor is heavily marked with black tar and acid marks.

12. CULTIST ALTAR

A rough stone slab with weird markings.

A perfect circle of beautiful PINK FLOWERS dangling on roots from the rough ceiling. Tall candles lit, soft light.

If the DUNGEON CLOCK₃₁ > 3, a random townspeople₁₇ is dead on the altar, wearing a weird TAKIN MASK.

Under the mask, their mouth is stuffed with rich earth, green shoots beginning to grow: their eyes are open, peacefully smiling, but their arms are battered and bloodied with struggle. Fingers are turning to wood.

13. PASSAGE

Footprints of old chambers can still be detected, but Hisa recently blasted out this entire area. Hisa uses it as a passageway to the Pools of St Marian (9). Her path between 11 and 22 is stained with tar and pitted with acid damage.

PINK FLOWERS

Smell delightful.

1 Stat Damage healed for every ten minutes spent here.

TAKIN MASK

I don't know what these do, but I love the art, which is a good reason to include them.

Whatever your table needs that this module doesn't have, make the Takin Mask do it.

Maybe they're a part of how Anarchists become Cultists.

Maybe you can summon and command 1d6 TAKIN₄₃ to arrive in 1d6 rounds, under your command for 1d6 rounds.

Maybe it confers stranger powers than these, at a terrible cost.

Maybe it's just a mask.

Takin Mask

14. BOTTOMLESS STAIR

ENDLESS STAIRS, narrow, line the edge of a shaft with no bottom. Dry, warm updraft.

Far down, the very faintly glowing entrance of a Tunnel.

From the mouth of this tunnel issues a glowing lavafall, an endless hissing of red-glowing liquid rock falling into the bottomless dark.

The stairs are an old, twofold trap that guards the lava.

- ♦ None but a hardy dwarf could climb down to the lava and back up!
- ♦ Let curiosity be their doom: below is only stairs and darkness, forever. Hahahahahahaha!

ENDLESS STAIRS

CON roll each 1/2 hour.

3 hours to descend to the tunnel.

5 to ascend from it.

CON DC = # of gear slots carried.

Fail = 1 CON DMG

When under 5 CON, fail also = Stumble

Stumble.
DEX DC 9 or fall.

Rest. The stairs are too narrow to achieve normal rest.

14A. THE TUNNEL

A very long tunnel. Perhaps half a mile or more. Walls of smoothly worked brass. Low ceiling, about 5'.

On one side, a narrow tiled walkway. On the other, a lava duct that ends in the lavafall. Full of bright, hot, flowing LAVA.

At the end of the tunnel, a small SHRINE blesses the crack in the rock from which the lava flows. A Dwarven Saint, face worn smooth by countless ancient pilgrim's touches. Faded inscription reads, in Dwarven: Bless the our hands and their work, bless us with the blood of the earth.

Removing it seals the hole and stops the flow of lava. Replacing it does nothing.

LAVA

Metal arms and armor dipped rapidly in the lava gain a magical +1 bonus for 24 hours.

Metal items left more than a few seconds in the lava melt entirely.

SHRINE

Value: 450 GP

Touching it grants a luck token.

15. ENCHANTED WELL

A bridge over a deep well, where the spur of the river drains. Brass-lined barrels line the walls, empty but sealed.

- ♦ Well. Water is always clean and pure. Secret passage Leads to underneath 18. The first 25 feet of this passage is a tunnel completely full of water, letting out into a cramped, crude hall.

16. THE OFFICE

Central Anarchist MEETING place.

A toppled statue of the Underking, a sawhorse, and some boards make a large table. On it, maps of the surrounding area and dungeon.

- ♦ Maps. Allow the players to study the maps (but not the keys).

D6 DUNGEON MEETINGS

In daytime, there is always a meeting of ANARCHISTS₂₆ taking place

- | | |
|-----|---|
| 1-2 | 1d6 OGRES ₂₁ shouting at 1d6 Anarchists over unpaid wages. |
| 3 | 2d4 Anarchists discussing the ethics of armed resistance to taxes |
| 4 | 3 Anxious Anarchists ...but what do we actually do , after liberation? |
| 5 | 4 Anarchists playing a board game and sharing stale bread. |
| 6 | 1d4+1 Anarchists planning details of the SUMMONING ₂₃ |

17. ANTECHAMBER

Through an ornate iron grill, room 18 can be seen beyond.

Skrylja

HOARD

193,728 Silver Coins.

Also, assorted silver chalices, torques, bracelets, rings, etc. Will fill 34 wagons and totally destabilize regional economies.

Magic Dagger, +1

Silver plated. 1/day when it draws blood, can magically mute sound, as Silence (SD₇₁), for 3 rounds.

Tattered Flying

Carpets. Silver threads in beautiful patterns. Fly, double near. Carries 2. 1:6 chance / round: move in a random direction while flying.

Grönjard. Solid silver hammer. Intelligent. Always wants to talk (speaks Dwarven) about the "oldschool" way. Will not allow itself to be used as a hammer.

18. THE DRAGON

Sleeping on a staggering HOARD of dull silver, a wingless black dragon, SKRYLJA.

Armor and bones of a dozen long-forgotten would-be slayers heaped in one corner, blackened. 1d8 non-destroyed armor items (GM choice) usable if properly fitted (costs 1/3 their value).

Murder-holes and hidden passages repeat the defenses of room 2.

Portcullises at either end of the hall, triggered by twisting one arm of the throne. Skrylja has forgotten it. Winches to lift them in chambers to the sides.

Trap Door. Half-buried in silver. Secret passage to 15.

SKRYLJA

AC 16, HP 54, ATK 2 bite +8 (2d10) or 1 blood breath, MV double near, S +5, D +3, C +4, I +4, W +3, C +3 AL C, LV 11

Blood Breath. Kills you with your own superheated blood. Must first do damage with a bite. Fills a near size cube extending from dragon. DC 15 CON or 2d10 damage and blinded for 1 round.

Fits easily down all 10' passages. Can squeeze through narrower passages at half speed, with effort.

PLAYING SKRYLJA

A reptile that cares only for her beautiful silver dreams.

Will savagely attack any immediate or obvious threat to her silver. Otherwise, menacing, curious, speaks if spoken to, lets anyone pass. Totally indifferent to Hisa, the Anarchists, and everything else.

Sustained by bodily contact with her hoard, she doesn't need to leave this room, and hasn't in decades.

She believes she is the most powerful thing in five hundred miles. She wants what she has.

19. MEDITATION ROOM

A covered brass keyhole conceals the secret door into this room. Around the lock, telltale scratchmarks of frequent picking. Dappled sunlight with no source fills the room. Soft bird sounds.

Beside an obvious pressure plate, a kitchen chair faces the MEDITATION WALL. Next to it, a list of MEDITATIONS peek from under a small white rock. 2:6 chance of the Meditator being present.

- ♦ Obvious Pressure Plate. Stepping on it causes the door to swing softly shut and click, locking from the inside. After 1 minute, the face of St Marian slowly appears in the stone wall, eyes soft and searching.
- ♦ Chair. A humble kitchen chair, well used, wobbles, sized to fit a human.

MEDITATION WALL

1/day, St Marian will answer one direct question with unerring truth, using no more than 4 words.

If she cannot meaningfully answer, she simply smiles.

MEDITATOR

Random townspeople.

If present, deep in thought, choosing a question to ask next. Deeply startled to see anyone.

20. THE RIVER

A small channel diverted long ago from the river outside. Hisa has widened the passage all around it.

21. OUTSIDE

The Giant's entrance to the caves. Rock debris, flattened vegetation, and assorted mangled carcasses. Deep four-toed giant footprints.

2d6 VULTURES peck at a dead sheep. Attack anyone who stays longer than 5 minutes. Individuals retreat if wounded, if any killed, all retreat to linger menacingly.

VULTURES

If DUNGEON CLOCK₄₀ > 2, the vultures have human hands, and AL C.

AC 10, HP 5, ATK 1 Tear +1 (1d4), MV Near, S +1, D +0, C +1, I -3, W +1, Ch -3, AL N, LV 1

Carriion Tracker. Can track dead flesh unerringly within 1 mile.

Hands. Picks up rocks or loose gear and drops it from above. +1 (1d4), Near.

MEDITATIONS

Is Sielda cheating on me?

Did Sielda ever cheat on me?

Not even with Ander?

Will my brother ever come home?

— only 1/day, you damn fool! —

What's the point of living, when you'll just die?

Am I a good person?

Are the gods real?

Have I been seen coming in here?

Do Giants eat people like Susan says?

Is the world round like Starnjorn says?

Will my crop come strong?

How much should I sell my farm for?

Will Susan be happier if we move?

Will the Tax Collectors really burn the town if we can't pay?

No.

No.

No.

No.

— just that damn smile...

"Yes, but not always." Ha.

Yes.

22. FORGE OF AGRADUR

An anvil in the center of the room: imposing for a dwarf, diminutive for Hisa. Ceilings blasted to 25 feet. A wall forge pumps out blistering heat. Tongs, brass ladle, & other tools.

4:6 Chance HISA is here, her hammerstone beating SHARDS OF HORRENDOUS IRON into the head of a great SPEAR OF HORRENDOUS IRON, the trunk of a lodge pine for its shaft.

HISA

A four-toed, deep-eyed hulking figure of stone, clothed in lichens and mosses. She sings softly while she works.

AC 17, HP 40, ATK 2 Hammerstone or 1 Spear or 2 ladle MV Near, S +4, D +2, C +4, I +1, W +1, Ch +1, AL N, LV 8

Hammerstone. +7, Rock (2d6). 3x/day, obliterate a 10' cube of stone.

Brass Ladle. +7, (2d4). DEX DC 15 or be trapped. STR DC 18 or be dragged closer to Hisa.

Spear, unfinished. +9 (2d8), wielded as a great dagger.

Spear, finished. +10 2d12

THE SPEAR OF HORRENDOUS IRON

The blade that was broken, the ancient weapon of the Giant-Kings.

25' long. Intelligent. Utterly evil. Wants to corrupt the gods.

Nausea. When struck: DC 12 CON Save or have Disadvantage on Ability Checks and Attacks until the end of your next turn.

Corruption. If killed, rise corrupted after 3 rounds. You have free will, but are cursed. You

1. Cannot cause harm to a giant
 2. Can only eat living flesh.
 3. Cannot enter under a roof.
 4. Your HP maximum is permanently halved.
- (Gain new levels & new HP as normal after that.)

SHARDS OF HORRENDOUS IRON

Can be wielded as awkward short swords. -1 (1d6)

Nausea. When struck: DC 12 CON Save or have Disadvantage on Ability Checks and Attacks until the end of their next turn.

CLOCKS & WEATHER

D6 WEATHER

1. Fair.
2. Drifting Mist. Beautiful. Locals call it Gede's Smile. Take 1 luck token.
3. Thick Fog. Visibility limited to Near.
4. Thick Fog. Visibility limited to Near.
5. Drizzle.
6. Thunderstorm. Visibility limited to Near. All Travel Times double.

TOWN CLOCK

- 1 Fire. Town Hall burns. See Hooks₁₀.
- 2 Roots choke the town well. It's the only well.
- 3 Radicalization. 4:6 Anarchists are now Heartwood Cultists.
- 4 The DRUID₄₃ arrives. Asking questions. Planning murders.
- 5 BLOOD ROOT₂₀ arrives. See Hooks₁₀.
- 6 4d6 TAX MEN₄₃ arrive. Shaky armed resistance. An ugly scene.

FOREST CLOCK

- 1 Trees move in the night, encroaching on the Town.
- 2 Stolen sheep. Dead Shepherd. Herded away by an Ogre. Roland saw.
- 3 The forest eats the roads. All Travel Times on roads double.
- 4 Trees grow eyes. Advance all Threat Levels by 1 step.
- 5 The river changes course, and floods the town to 1 foot.
- 6 The SUMMONING₂₃ ritual completes.
Hisa attacks the AVATAR OF GEDE₂₃. Victor: 1-4 Hisa, 5-6 Avatar.

DUNGEON CLOCK

- 1 Full Moon. Cultists worship Gede all night: starlit bonfire, Takin masks.
- 2 Goblin funeral. SNIKTA₄₃ at the acid pool (19). Bitter, silent tears.
- 3 Awful screaming of a half dozen sheep being eaten alive in Area 21.
- 4 Hisa sleeps off a bender. Dungeon is quiet without her hammering.
- 5 The SPEAR OF HORRENDOUS IRON₃₉ is finished.
Hisa attacks Skrylja. Victor: 1-4 Hisa, 5-6 Skrylja.
- 6 Dungeon is empty. Surviving OGRES₂₁ methodically loot the hoard.

CLOCKS

The world is in motion around the players. These clocks are tools to keep it in motion.

The clocks don't represent what happens. They represent what probably happens if the players do nothing.

Rewrite elements of these clocks as your players influence the world. What fun!

Roll each day on the Weather table, and advance each Clock by one each sunset (or when a duplicate is rolled as indicated on encounter tables).

MAKING IT SHORT

If you'd like to run this as a one-shot or con game, four easy changes help it sing in a tight frame.

1. Fewer Factions. Cut the Tax Collectors, the Druid, and the Goblins. Replace Goblin encounters with 1-2 Ogres.
2. Clear Evil. Make the Anarchists straight-up evil, mad with cursed tree-sap. Add the phrase Bring the fall, kill them all to the poem.
3. Combine two Hooks₁₀
 - ♦ Knight's Map. The players are protecting Yahn's yarn shipment when Hilda arrives, bloody. The dungeon entrance is faintly in sight.
 - ♦ Highway Bandits. While talking to Hilda, 2 Ogres attempt highway robbery. They'll retreat to the dungeon if stiffly resisted.
4. 11th Hour. Start all CLOCKS on Day 4. Days 1-3 are the recent events.
